Maggie Hughes DePalo is a Chicago standup comedian, born and raised on the city's southside. After getting married and having children, Maggie jumped into the comedy scene later in life when she realized it's a lot more fun than 'book club'. Her deadpan style and sarcastic storytelling has won over audiences of all ages. Maggie has performed at Zanies, Laugh Factory, Comedy Bar, The Lincoln Lodge, CYSK Chicago and several private and corporate events. She is also a co-founder and producer of ALL THAT GOOD STUFF, a comedy showcase founded on the southside of Chicago.

Jim Flannigan is a nationally touring stand-up comedian from Chicago. Known for his fast paced, clever punchlines, Jim is a regular headliner at top comedy clubs including Zanies and The Improv, as well as being a regular performer at Chicago's Laugh Factory and Brad Garrett's Comedy Club in Las Vegas, NV.

Jim has opened for some of the biggest names in the world of comedy, including Sebastian Maniscalco, Demitri Martin and more, along with TV appearances on ABC, NBC, WGN & NBC Sports among others. Flannigan spent 3 years as the co-host of the hilarious All Over the Place, a weekly podcast that is just that, with Pat McGann.
