The collection is called 'The Mechanical Animal.'

It is a love story as well as a narrative about becoming who you were meant to be. The drama will emerge through images as well as video displayed throughout the Uptown Social building. I have also added a few unique elements this time around. Along with my music collaborator, Christian Alexander, this exhibit will include music specifically created around the story of 'The Mechanical Animal.' It will be played alongside the images and video work.

Music had become an integral part of my art... and Christian is essential at bringing my music vision to full fruition. We both share the same strange minds.

Additionally, I will have the body piece I used in the collection on display—designed and created by the talented artist, Karrie Harbart. My goal is to create as much of an immersive experience as possible, hopefully leaving the audience second-guessing at the exit.

All images will be available for purchase in limited editions of 1
